

Manito Park

Spokane Washington

Manito Park is located in Spokane Washington's beautiful South Hill neighborhood. Manito Park has five gardens, greenhouse conservatory and ponds that are toured by over 150,000 visitors each year.

Manito Park includes spacious manicured lawns, playgrounds, walking and biking paths, flowers, topiary shrubs, and multiple picturesque gardens.

Manito Park's large trees and well tended landscaping make for a great place to visit in Spokane.

Manito Park Features

- Rose Hill Garden
- Duncan Renaissance Garden
- Nishinomiya Japanese Garden
- Manito Perennial Garden
- Lilac Garden
- Gaiser Conservatory and Greenhouse
- Delphinium Garden
- Duck and Koi Ponds
- Park Bench Café
- Regal Basalt Stone Bridge
- Historic Craftsman Bungalow Homes
- 90 Acres of beautiful landscape

With a wide variety of foliage, blooms and buildings, Manito Park offers many attractive photography opportunities.

Often you can see amateurs taking snapshots with small cameras or professionals with tripods awaiting the perfect light conditions.

A must see at Manito Park is the Renaissance style Duncan Garden. It has a central water feature, gazebo and an extensive display of colorful annual bedding plants. The gorgeous granite fountain in the center of the garden highlights the manicured landscape. Be sure to stop by and see this impressive Pacific Northwest garden.

Manito Park in Spokane Washington is one of the premier gardens and central parks of the Pacific Northwest.

For more information, including maps, photos, park reports and inspired articles, check out:

www.ManitoPark.org

The Nishinomiya Japanese Garden in Manito Park is a wonderful place for a leisurely stroll.

This garden includes a Koi pond, Japanese style statues, a waterfall and attractive bridge over the pond.

A gravel path winds through the garden features and is a great way to spend a beautiful afternoon.

www.ManitoPark.org

Copyright 2008 All Rights Reserved

Manito Park 1702 S. Grand Blvd. Spokane, WA 99203